Subject: Dimock meetings postponed

Hi Terri and Roy,

I understand from some Dimock homeowners who were scheduled to have meetings with EPA representatives to review their test results this week that those meetings have been postponed. These are people in the first group of 11 whose results were distributed last week.

Can you explain the reason for the postponement?

How many meetings were postponed (I know some already took place)?

One homeowner mentioned that one reason he was given by the EPA for the postponement of his meeting was that EPA representatives are behind in handing out the second round of test results.

Have all of those tests been distributed at this point?

Do you plan to release a summary of those results?

Thanks for your help.

Best,
